

triReduce Trade Revision

Trade Revision is the latest evolution in multilateral portfolio compression from triReduce. Regarded as the way forward for the industry, Trade Revision requires minimal data to achieve superior efficiency.

Until now, compressing swap portfolios was limited to amending the notional on existing trades. With Trade Revision, it is possible to also change the coupon, floating leg spread and direction of the trade in the clearing house (CCP). This added flexibility boosts compression efficiency by up to 50%, enabling firms to reduce their notional and capital costs even quicker. With Trade Revision, we continue to push towards the maximum mathematically achievable compression result, while meeting the critical need to keep the CCP completely risk flat.
